WEATHER—Thursday Cloudy and much colder. Probably local snows.

The country at large has been behind President Wilson and Attorney General Palmer in their fight with the United Mine Workers of America. And there has been a sigh of relief from hundreds of thousands of throats when the news that the strike was called off sped over the wires.

It seems rather a coincidence that this victory over the radical forces in our great labor organizations should have been won on Armistice Day—the anniversary of our winning the great victory in the World's War.

Much praise is due to the persons who made the Armistice Day celebration at the Tabernacle such a success. Henry J. Stites of the American Legion was a prime mover in the project and much of the success was due to his efforts. Credit is also due to Mrs. J. H. Dagg representing the Red Cross, and Miss Mary Bronaugh, who personally made a canvass of the merchants and secured their agreement to close their places of business during the afternoon of Armistice Day.

The following advertisement has been appearing in the Columbia University's daily paper: "Are you bound by convention? A Columbia girl from out of town, cultured, well bred and fairly good looking, wishes to make the acquaintances of several men in order to be introduced at Columbia functions. She is entirely unconventional and is willing to meet the men half way by paying all expenses. Strictly confidential. It is said that several hundred students are patiently awaiting a reply.

Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, is visiting the United States. He is one of the most democratic of all the royal family, and make friends wherever he goes. He is a great sportsman and is fond of all athletic sports. In fact all who have had the pleasure of meeting him, pronounce him a good fellow.

The Republican party is going to give their women full participation in the future affairs of the state. In putting this plan into effect, the National Committee in meeting at Chicago created a woman's division of the Republican National Committee and elected Mrs. John C. South Frankfort, Ky., chairman.

The new motor fire equipment of the Hopkinsville Fire Department gives the city a modern protection in every way. No more will we hear the clatter of the hoofs of "Dixie" and "Whitie," but the whirr and the roar of the Klaxon horn as it announces the approach of the red demons.

Our hats off to Federal Judge A. B. Anderson at Indianapolis who has handled the Government's end of the judicial matters in regard to the strike. He laid down the law and he saw that it was enforced. May our bench be graced with more such judges!

The Swiss National Council at Berne voted 105 to 49 to Legion de liberation on Switzerland's adhesion to the League of Nations. The Socialists voted solidly against it. Lodge, Borah, Reed, LaFollette & Co. seem to have plenty of company among the radicals of other nations.

Hopkinsville is to be congratulated on possessing such a musical organization as Lebkuecher's Band. This fact was again realized on Armistice Day when the band played so well at the celebration at the Tabernacle.

Adj. General James Tanty Ellis, who has been ill in a Lexington sanatorium is reported better and is slowly but surely improving.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION LARGE AFFAIR

GREAT CROWD AT TABERNACLE HEAR SPEECHES AND ENJOY MUSIC.

THE KEYNOTE IS AMERICANISM Veterans of Great War As Well As Blue and Gray Address Huge Audience.

On Tuesday afternoon at the Tabernacle one of the largest crowds ever assembled in that building, gathered to celebrate Armistice Day. The American Legion and Red Cross had arranged a stirring and patriotic program, consisting of patriotic music, four minute speeches by veterans of the Civil War and the Great War and a review of Christian county's share of the Great War by Mrs. W. T. Fowler, county historian. This program was much enjoyed by the large crowd as was evidenced by the applause for each speaker.

Lebkuecher's Band furnished the music for the occasion, and community singing of patriotic songs was led by Mr. Hohgatt, director of music in the Christian church.

In a beautifully worded address Mrs. W. T. Fowler, county historian told of the record that Christian county had made in the great war. 1733 men left the county for service in our army and navy or marine corps. Of this number about 300 were colored.

According to statistics at hand 394 went overseas. Forty paid the supreme sacrifice, eleven of these were killed in action.

All of the speakers representing the American Legion and the Blue and the Gray dealt with the subject of Americanism—and an absolute loyalty to the country—its purposes and its aims.

The program was as follows: Henry J. Stites, presiding. America—Band and audience. Mrs. W. T. Fowler—What Christian county Did in the War. W. O. Soyars—Americanism. Judge J. C. Cansler—Peace. Community Singing—Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag. Arthur Reeder—Back Home. Alvan H. Clark—The Red Cross. Community Singing with band.

H. A. Lom—The Flag. Community Singing With the Band—Over There. Judge W. P. Winfree—Our Country. Col. Jonett Henry—Facts. Star Spangled Banner—Lebkuecher's Band.

GOING TO FRANKFORT

Many Christian County Republicans Preparing For Big Trip to Inauguration.

Many of the local Republicans are planning to attend the inauguration of Edwin P. Morrow as Governor of Kentucky on December 9 at Frankfort.

They are making big preparations for the trip and it is probable that fifty or sixty will go. It is planned to charter a Pullman car, and make that their home while in Frankfort, as it is realized that hotel accommodations will be out of the question in Frankfort at that time.

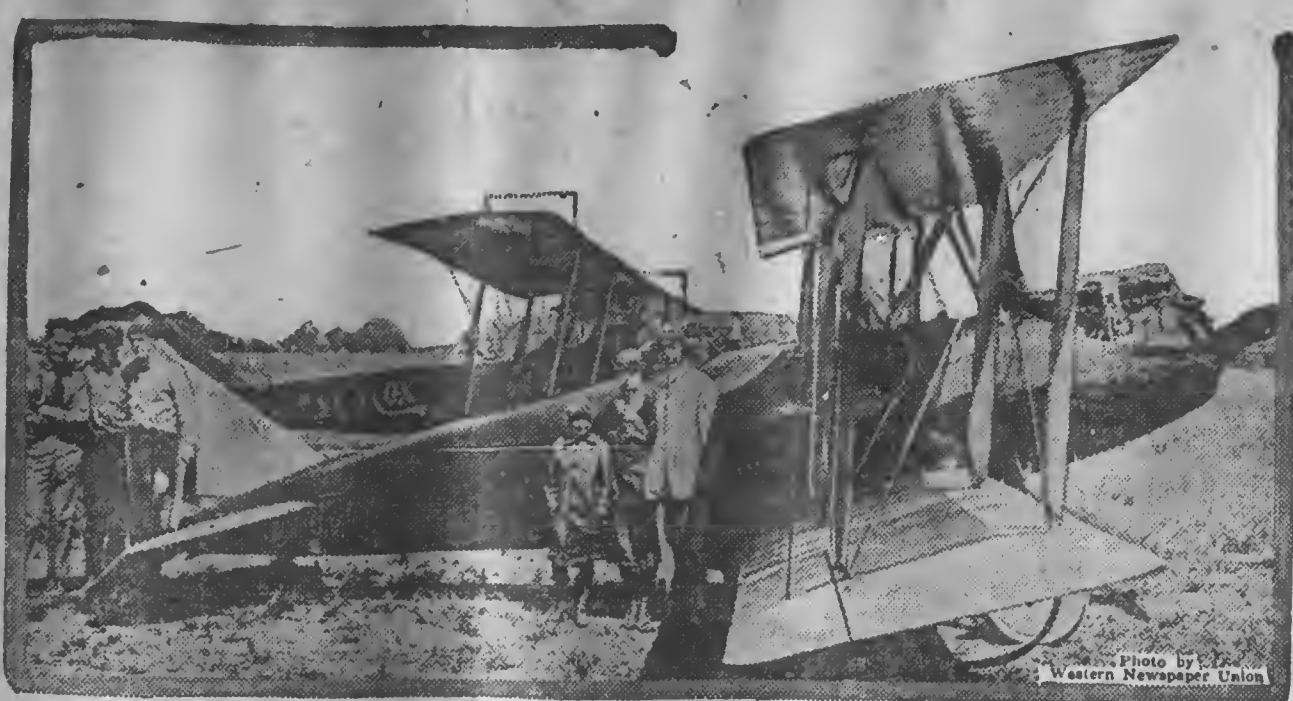

Lebkuecher's Band has been engaged to make the trip and to furnish music for the Hopkinsville delegation in the inaugural parade.

British Medal For Miss Arvin. Miss Mary Arvin, the local Red Cross Nurse, has gone to Washington where she will receive the British Military Medal for bravery while under fire in France.

The Prince of Wales will personally present the decoration.

More Indiana city officials have been convicted of fraud. This time it is Muncie—the last time Terre Haute—and we wonder where next?

I. W. W. FIRE ON ARMISTICE PARADES

PARADE OF VETERANS IN CENTRALIA, WASH., ATTACKED BY SNIPERS

THREE VETERANS ARE KILLED

Sixteen I. W. W.'s in Jail—Others in The Hand of Citizen Mob.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11.—About 6 o'clock the mob surrounding the Centralia jail succeeded in getting one of the I. W. W.'s arrested out of jail and into an automobile, rushing him away before guards could prevent it, telephone reports here said.

At 7:30 tonight the city's lights were suddenly cut off and a volley of shots rained down Pearl street. It was during this period that the prisoner was taken from jail and spirited away. He was rushed toward a nearby wood and at last accounts the crowd had disappeared with him.

According to telephone reports to-night from the Centralia Chronicle the mob took the alleged I. W. W. from jail, carried him to a nearby wood and shot him dead. The man's body is now on a rope under the bridge ten feet from the water.

A phone message said, "The I. W. W. mob lynched was the one shot Dale Hubbard during the parade." The man's body is now on a rope under the bridge ten feet from the water.

Former Soldiers Killed. Centralia, Wash., Nov. 11.—Three former soldiers were killed and a number injured today by snipers said to have been Industrial Workers of the World, who fired on an Armistice Day Parade marching through the streets of the city.

The whole city was thrown into consternation, and the parade of veterans of the world war broke up quickly while the uniformed marchers made a dash to raid the I. W. W. hall and round up all suspicious characters.

The service men stripped the hall of all furniture and documents and arrested six men. These, thrown into jail, were guarded by the former soldiers to prevent their escape and at the same time protect them from lynching until their guilt could be established.

Mob Bent On Lynching. A mob seeking vengeance on the prisoners was fought back by the overzealous men who stood guard at the jail to see that officials made no effort to take the suspects away.

A quantity of arms and ammunition was seized when the mob ransacked the I. W. W. headquarters, near which the shooting occurred, trampled down the building front and threw into the street and burned all the organization's literature and property which could be found. Posses scoured the timber camps and searched feverishly among the town's 8,000 inhabitants for other radicals.

Immediately after the shooting, a crowd of spectators and marchers seized a man they believed to be the ring leader of the I. W. W. They put a rope around his neck, threw the rope over the cross arm of a telephone pole and started to haul him up. He was in the air only a brief period before the Chief of Police prevailed upon the crowd to let him down. Tonight the man was in jail here nearly dead.

Shots Poured On Parade. Shots poured from the roofs of buildings as the parade neared Tower avenue, Centralia's main street, and second avenue. Arthur E. McElfresh fell dead and Warren O. Grimm, attorney and former University of Washington football star, and Ben Cassagrande, real estate man, suffered wounds from which he later died. All were residents of Centralia.

Four others who sustained less severe wounds were: George Stevens and Dale Hubbard of Centralia and two men from Chehalis, Wash., whose last names were given as Frisue and Watt.

The whole city had turned out to celebrate the anniversary of the suspension of hostilities and a large parade was formed headed by the city's boys who had helped bring about the glad day of a year ago. Wearing the uniforms that sheltered them in the trenches of France and on the picket lines of the German border, the service men were the synosure of the hundreds of women and children who lined the streets.

Blood Runs On Streets. As the column swung around the corner of Tower avenue and Second Avenue, the band struck up a patriotic march. They bullets came in to the ranks from an unseen enemy.

The puff of smoke from the roof of a nearby building indicated whence the bullets had come and the quick decision of the I. W. W. to a quick decision was the result. The marching soldiers did not linger to await the order to fall out but with seeming intuition rushed in to the nearby structure and sought their way to the roofs. The snipers had disappeared, but the service men sought highways and byways for all suspicious persons and then sent out pioneers into the timbered country around the city.

Women Aid In Search. Wives, daughters and sweethearts of the paraders, after a momentary pause from the sudden terror of the situation, rushed to the aid of the fallen.

That the firing was intended for soldiers was shown by the fact that all the killed and injured were in the military section of the parade which was made up partly of residents of Chehalis.

Arthur McElfresh was found to have been killed instantly, but Warren Grimm did not die until later. Grimm's death added to the fury of the crowd of civilians that swarmed later about the jail to demand vengeance.

He had been an idol of the town even before the war, as he was a star football player of the University of Washington. As soon as the first excitement subsided somewhat, word of the attack was sent to Gov. Hart of Olympia. He communicated with the Department of Justice officers at Seattle and then dispatched 75 members of the Third Infantry, National Guard to Centralia. The soldiers are expected to arrive by morning.

COAL STRIKE CALLED OFF FOR PRESENT

UNION OFFICIALS SUBMIT TO JUDGE'S ORDER AND CALL THE STRIKE OFF.

STATEMENT FROM PRES. LEWIS

Secretary Wilson Will Summon Operators and Miners For Wage Conference.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11.—United States District Judge A. B. Anderson at 10 o'clock this morning approved an order of the officials of the United Mine Workers of America rescinding the strike order of Oct. 15.

Attorneys for the miners promised to try to have it in the mails by 6 this evening. This action was taken following a session of the general committee of the miners, which decided early today to comply with the mandate of the court issued last Saturday.

Judge Anderson characterized the order as a "good faith effort" to comply with his mandate. The text of the order follows:

"In the case of the United Mine Workers of America v. Anderson, et al., filed in the United States District Court at Indianapolis, Indiana, Judge A. B. Anderson, this day, the undersigned hereby advises you that the order of October 15 directing a cessation of operations in the bituminous coal fields of our jurisdiction is withdrawn and cancelled. Your fraters and sisters are hereby notified that the order is hereby rescinded. A. B. Anderson, U. S. District Judge."

JOHN L. LEWIS, Pres. "WILLIAM GREEN, Sec. Treas.

The order to rescind was presented to the court by Henry Warrum, Indianapolis attorney for the miners.

After the court proceedings Mr. Warrum, G. L. Grant, Fort Smith, Ark., and F. C. Heubner, Albion, associated counsel, issued a statement in the presence of the government attorneys, in which the position of the mine workers was stated.

The statement of the attorneys follows:

"The operators have repeatedly declared that they were ready to enter into negotiations with the miners if the strike order were withdrawn. The government has taken the position that, in the vindication of its own supremacy, the strike order must be withdrawn before they would take any steps to compel the resumption of such negotiations. The issue has been submitted to the court and, in compliance with the court's ruling, the strike order has been cancelled and withdrawn. It seems to me that good faith on the part of the operators requires them to meet the miners' representatives at once for the purpose of negotiating a settlement of this wage controversy, and that good faith on the part of the government requires it to see that such a resumption is had at once and concluded without delay."

In announcing the decision of the miners' officials to call off the strike

MOGUL TO INCREASE IT'S OUTPUT

INCREASED DEMANDS MAKE ADDITION TO BUILDING NECESSARY

CAPACITY IS TO BE DOUBLED

One New Building To Be Erected at Once—Others May Follow.

Hopkinsville factories were never in a more prosperous condition than they are at the present time. The demand for all kinds of products has caused every producer to double his efforts.

One factory has found the increase in business has reached such a proportion that new arrangements and larger facilities must be had to take care of this increase. This is the Mogul Wagon Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Mogul wagon. This company did good work during the war, and was the only wagon factory in the country to complete all of its contracts for war material.

Now that the war is over, the demand for wagons has reached such a proportion that the Mogul is unable with its present facilities to take care of this business. By increasing the size of some of its buildings and building other new ones, it is hoped that the capacity of the factory can be doubled. Some of this work has already been started and more will begin in the near future.

The present office building will be moved across Harrison street onto the vacant lot owned by the factory. On the lot formerly occupied by the office a one-story brick building fifty feet wide and one hundred and sixty feet long will be built. This building will be heated by steam, and used for storing surplus dry wood stock. In the wagon business it is necessary to carry on hand large quantities of dried wood stock in order to make uniform production. After coming out of the dry kilns, lumber, if not used at once, must be stored in heated buildings where it will not again absorb moisture. The new building will take care of this condition, and house enough dry stock to enable the Mogul to double its present capacity.

Another addition will be made to the factory building, a new building to be built on the vacant lot owned by the factory. This building will be used for storing surplus dry wood stock. OUR ROAD SYSTEM.

During the past three years, four hundred thousand dollars have been spent on the roads of our country.
This is in addition to the annual amount spent by the Fiscal Court—this large amount was the proceeds of the bond issue voted several years ago.

This money was spent over the whole county—spread over a large area, building a nine-foot road here,
a twelve-foot road there, and patching up a worn-out road at another place. All of these roads were water bound macadam—not a single foot of permanent road work was done.

Today the result is there every road out of Hopkinsville has large holes in it. If we are to build macadam roads, in these days of heavy automobile traffic, we must have some method of systematic upkeep.
The French are known to have one of the best road systems in the world.
Most of their roads are the same kind as ours, water bound macadam.
But their success lies in their system of upkeep, which is something like this:

A man will be given so many miles of road to look after. He starts out each day with his little cart full of rock, his sprinkling pot, his rake, shovel, and tumbler. Every hole that he finds is cleaned out, filled with fresh rock, and tamped until it is solid. In this way, a few rocks in time save a big hole in the road.
We might do worse than take lessons from the French.

great work while we were there, but was our work fulfilled when the armistice was signed? Do we not owe to the allies and the world our full participation in the League of Nations?

The leading French paper, LeMatin, in a recent editorial expresses the attitude of the French people:

"Without repeating the details of the reservations, which we published a few days ago, it would not be amiss to emphasize that, if they were voted, the collaboration of America in the execution of the treaty would be only illusory.

"The United States would not undertake any of the duties which the other powers have assumed. It could withdraw from the League of Nations by a simple vote of Congress.
It would intervene to guarantee the territorial integrity of the powers,
by the side of which it has fought only after a parliamentary discussion, and it would be in each particular case for Congress to decide.
America would not accept any mandate for the administration of any territory.

"Congress would reserve to itself
the right to name the delegates to the League of Nations and then in turn would even reserve the right to increase American armaments without consent of the league; in a word,
the United States would not participate in the co-operation of the Allies for the enforcement of the treaty on the same footing with other powers, for its participation would depend at all times upon political circumstances and the disposition of Congress.
"Unless in the attitude of the two parties there is a good deal of bluff,
the situation is very serious, and up to the last moment the attitude of the United States will justify great anxiety."

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills.
They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed
I was more constipated than before.
I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal,
no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative
one can use."

Thedford's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

A PARTY OF OBSTRUCTION

Washington, D. C.—The failure of the Republican majorities in the Senate and House of Representatives to either carry out their announced legislative program or enact needed legislation except when spurred and prodded by President Wilson, was the subject of two Democratic addresses in Congress. Senator Joseph T. Robinson pointed out that but two important measures had come before the Senate in the six months of the special session—the Treaty of Peace and the railroad bill—and that no action has been taken upon either. Representative James B. Aswell cited official figures to prove that "the expense to the people of Republican inaction is a minimum of $20,000 a day, or $3,000,000 already expended in the current expenses of this special session."

Representative Aswell spoke of the "unpardonable filibuster" by the Republicans in the last Congress, which prevented passage of many important pieces of appropriation and other legislation.

"Republican leaders, still eager to harass the President, during two months howled incessantly for a special session of Congress," continued Mr. Aswell. They got it. They have had it for six months; they have done nothing and now they cry quit. Is it any wonder the President foresaw this situation and appealed to the country for a Democratic Congress to support him in prosecuting the war, and to hold the confidence of the country by enacting straightforward, efficient legislation during the reconstruction period through which we are now passing?

"The country is now in ominous turmoil, lawlessness seeks excuses, business is paralyzed and afraid and internal agitators would like to threaten organized government. Yet the Republican majority, in full control of the organization of this Congress sits supinely by without purposeful leadership. Until the last of October, when forced by public sentiment led by Democrats, they refused to stand up and be counted on grave questions vital to the whole people. Attacking the administration and criticizing the government have become the habits which give hope, comfort and encouragement to anarchy and bolshevism.

"Afraid to move forward, the Republicans leaders fiddle away the time by investigating everything that might give promise of campaign material for 1920, this being intended to divert public attention from their own shortcomings. Let the Congress find out now how much time and money are being squandered upon these ponderous and noisy investigations to find campaign thunder for 1920, when up to this hour they have not revealed a single important fact not already known.

"The country wants legislation on the railroads, the merchant marine, the control and development of our national resources, our military and naval policies, the regulation of immigration, the stamping out of anarchy and bolshevism, the high cost of living, the extension of motor truck mail service, highway construction and soldier relief measures. The Democrats in Congress are eager for action, yet the Republican majority refuses to act or permit action, fritters away the time with irrelevant political matters to the discouragement and disgust of the country. Nothing has been done for the returned soldiers except what has been worked out and accomplished by the Departments of the Government under a Democratic administration, for which the Republicans can in no way claim credit.

Three billion dollars worth of public business is tied up indefinitely by these war investigations. The country demands the disposal of motor trucks, automobiles and other army materials needed in civil life, yet the investigating committees are taking up the entire time of 40 per cent of the forces of the War Department in answering questions and preparing data for the investigating committees. No Democrat or department of the government opposes the most searching investigation in quest of facts for the good of the Government, but we demand that the country's present and future business also receive the serious attention of the Congress."

"I believe in the freedom of debate, and so long as any Senator fairly believes that he can impress his viewpoint upon his colleagues debate may well continue, but day after day, week after week, we have heard the same arguments repeated over and over, and now in a few days the session will close; and there is a probability that it will expire without a single important act having passed the Congress."

TIGERS PLAY NASHVILLE

Local High School Team Tackles Heavy Team From Nashville On Friday.

On Friday afternoon the High School football team will tackle the Nashville High School pig skin chasers.

The local Tigers came out of last Saturday's scrap with Evansville in good shape, and are promising to duplicate that victory by a like one or better over Nashville.

Dabney will be back in the game at half, and should add strength to the back field.

Nashville will have a heavier team than the locals, but the Tigers say "the bigger they are, the harder the fall."

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION
When the International Live Stock Exposition was held last year, the European war had just been terminated by an armistice, the nature of which was hazy; this year peace has been firmly established as far as the United States is concerned, all uncertainty having been removed. This country has been through a period of readjustment from which it is emerging on a safe, sane and substantial democratic basis.

Fitting therefore is the dual celebration planned at Chicago the first week of December. Victory being no longer in doubt, the great livestock industry disturbed by war uncertainty will move forward to even greater success. Fitting also will be the reunion of livestock raisers who during the past twenty years have participated in these annual expositions, together with such alternate prosperity and vicissitude as the industry has encountered. A vic and twentieth anniversary observance will attract the largest concourse of livestock raisers and others ever seen within an International Live Stock Exposition arena. For good measure we will have a show of grains and grasses on a scale without parallel or precedent, both as to variety and quality.

GROWERS MAY FORM POOL

Tobacco Men of Three Counties Meet At Henderson to Consider Higher Prices.

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 11.—Tobacco growers of Union, Henderson and Webster counties have been called to meet here Friday to discuss the market situation.

In the call sent to the three counties, the statement is made that a survey was made by the Kentucky Experiment Station on eighty-two tobacco farms in Christian county to ascertain the cost of producing dark tobacco and that the data sets the actual price of producing at 18 cents a pound.

The growers hold top grades should average 30, the middle 25 and the lower 20 cents a pound.

The meeting is called to adopt prices for the weed for this season and it may result in forming a pool to hold the new crop for these prices.

The average last season on local loose leaf floors was slightly above 15 cents, and leading growers in Henderson county have been advocating a pool.

SOME GINGERBREAD RECIPES.

Ginger Cookies.
The word "cookie" always suggests New England, yet as other good things have come from this section, I know also that this small cake recipe is good:
One egg.
One cupful sugar.
One cupful molasses.
One tablespoon soda.
One teaspoonful vinegar.
One tablespoonful vinegar.
Flour to hold ingredients together.
Break the egg in a pan and add the other ingredients, roll very thin and bake quickly.

Soft Gingerbread.
There was probably one original method of making this delectable, toothsome, dark sweet bread, but from the original recipe there has been devised so many variations the first recipe has been lost in obscurity. I fancy the recipe given here comes nearer the original one than many that we have all tried. I know that it is excellent.

One-half cup sugar.
One half-cup sweet milk.
One-half teaspoon soda dissolved in one tablespoonful of water.
One teaspoonful of cinamon.
One beaten egg.
One-half cup New Orleans molasses.
One-half teaspoonful baking powder.
One tablespoonful of ginger.
One and a half cupfuls of flour.
Sift together all of the dry ingredients into a deep bowl. Add the molasses, the milk and the shortening. Beat the egg and add that. It is not well to beat cake batter very much after the eggs have been added, as this detracts from the lightness of the batter; therefore, be sure you have your batter well mixed before the egg is added. Bake slowly in a deep cake pan. Serve with sauce or in broken chunks. This kind of cake is better broken than cut, as the knife is apt to make it soggy along the outer edge of the slice.

A Good Sauce For Gingerbread.
To one pint of boiling water add one cupful white sugar and two tablespoonfuls brown sugar, pinch of salt, one tablespoonful of butter, and one scant tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in cold water. Boil a half hour and season with any flavor desired. If properly made this sauce should be perfectly clear and moderately thick, but not candied. One tablespoonful of currant or acid plum jelly dissolved in hot water and added to this sauce just before serving adds greatly to its deliciousness. This is a practical sauce that can be used for puddings or any kind of cakes.

Smith, the hotel manager, and Jones, a manufacturer's agent, were talking one day about their respective business interests.
"I say," remarked Jones, "how ever do you use such an enormous quantity of pears and peaches?"
"Well," replied Smith, "we eat what we can and what we can't eat we can."

"Indeed!" said the other. "We do about the same in our business."

"How is that?"

"We sell an order when we can sell it, and when we can't we cancel it."

Storing Vegetables For Winter

It is time to begin putting the vegetables away for winter.

While sweet potatoes can be stored in the ground and kept successfully its is generally more satisfactory to store them in the attic near a flue where it will be warm and dry, in a dry cellar or in a similar place. Wrapping each potato in paper or packing in dry dirt or wheat chaff helps keep the potatoes warm and dry.

Irish potatoes need only to be protecting from freezing by storing in a freeze-proof cellar or in the ground. From now on they can be taken from the ground and stored immediately if dug when the dirt is dry.

Beets and carrots keep better when piled upon the ground, covered with leaves, hay or straw and then covered with enough dirt to prevent freezing. This is the way potatoes are covered.

Turnips are covered in the same way as beets and carrots except that they need not be covered as deeply. In fact some claim that they keep better if just well covered with straw or hay that is weighed down to keep it from blowing away.

Cabbage should not be harvested until a hard freeze threatens. Then it may be taken up and the heads set upside down in a shallow trench. Straw is then put around them and dirt piled on until it will prevent freezing. If the heads are immature they may be bent over towards the north until they touch the ground and covered over well with dirt. They will bleach and grow some.

Parsnips and salsify are best left in the ground where grown until needed in the winter or spring.

THE GREATEST

Trouble Saving Device

EVER INVENTED

FOR FORD CARS

Do You Know

That it is estimated that ninety per cent of the trouble and delays experienced with Ford Cars is with the ignition system and is due to broken or faulty insulation; wet coils and connections; foul and dirty connections; cracked or broken porcelain and short circuits due to their causes which are not serious within themselves; all starting troubles due to wet or damp coils, can be completely, perfectly and permanently corrected by the use of a B. & H. Coil Insulator?

The B. & H. Coil Insulator FOR ALL FORD CARS

GUARANTEES DRYNESS OF COILS IN WET WEATHER AND FREEDOM FROM IGNITION AND STARTING TROUBLES DUE TO WET, FOULED OR IMPROPERLY INSULATED COIL CONNECTIONS.

This is a device which is needed on every Ford Car and one which is indispensable on Fords which are used in damp, wet or rainy weather. It protects the coil box and connections from the rain and water which otherwise runs down the dash, short-circuiting the wiring system and causing serious ignition and starting trouble which usually requires that the coil-box be removed and dried out before the car is started. In addition to this, the B. & H. Coil Insulator assures proper insulation of all coil connections, thereby eliminating all ignition troubles from faulty insulation of coil connections.

CONSTRUCTION AND INSTALLATION.

This device is made in one piece from fresh, live rubber of high quality. It has no seams or joints and is made to perfectly fit any Ford coil box. It may be easily installed by anyone in a few moments and fits between the coil-box and the dash extending over the entire length of the binding posts absolutely preventing the dripping out of the coils and the subsequent short-circuiting of the high tension leads. This device is made of the most effective insulating material known and is far superior to similar devices and appliances made of metal and other materials.

PALMER CONTINUES CLEAN-UP

Many Radicals and Reds Taken In Raids by U. S. Officials Will Be Deported.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Deportation proceedings have been instituted in a number of cities to rid the country of violent radicals caught in the nation-wide raids which have been in progress since Friday, Attorney General Palmer announced tonight.

Instructions have gone to all departments of justice agents, the attorney general said, to permit no delay in instituting formal hearings, preliminary to the actual deportation. Assurances have been received from other government departments that action would be taken to expedite the cases.

In the meantime the cleanup of the country will continue. Mr. Palmer announced tonight that there must be "no let-up." The total number actually held on deportation warrants had reached 391 tonight, while from some cities, in which radical leaders were picked up, reports had not reached the Department.

Efforts of the department representatives, it was said, are being directed more particularly at the union of Russian workers. This organization branded by the attorney general as the most dangerous anarchistic group in the country, was said to have had wide ramifications with department agents still uncovering new evidence of its activities.

Opinion at the Department of Justice as expressed today, seems to be that the Russian union perhaps was constituting itself a self-appointed leader of all organizations which are preaching overthrow of the Government. Literature seized, was said to show that the organization accepted support from almost any source, so long as it was working to defeat authority and destroy private property rights. Officials said they had evidence showing that leaders of the union had made overtures to other and lesser groups of radicals to join their organization, holding out promises of rewards when State and society are overthrown.

Because they are regarded as the most dangerous of all radical types, those arrested in the recent raids are being held on $10,000 bail, officials said. Peter Blanki and Adolph Schnabel, both former secretaries of the Union of Russian workers, have been held in bail of $15,000.

The following list given out by the Department of Justice shows the number of persons held on deportation warrants in the various cities: Newark, 32; Baltimore, 9; Akron, 32; Monessen, Pa., 20; Pittsburgh, 5; Cleveland, 18; Buffalo, 14; Philadelphia, 10; Trenton, 1; Hartford, 145; New York, 39; Chicago, 7; Detroit, 59.

Portugal's war losses amounted to 8,867 of the 200,000 who fought during the war, while 4,180 are listed as missing, according to a statement issued by the Portuguese legation here. The 200,000 men mobilized formed 4 per cent of the total population of Portugal.

Bureau of County Health Work.

Because of the desire among a number of counties to maintain efficient, fulltime Health Officers, the Kentucky State Board of Health has created a bureau of county health work whose activities will be solely devoted to assisting in financing and promoting the work of such departments.

Dr. P. W. Covington, of the International Health Board, has been loaned to the State for the purpose of assuming the directorship of the bureau.

In the beginning a large part of his time will be devoted to assisting county health authorities in organizing full-time health departments.

Dr. Covington brings to the state wide experience in such work, having spent the last ten years in organizing county health departments throughout the South, as well as in some of the foreign countries.

The State Board of Health is now in position to give $10,000 annually to the first five counties making a like appropriation. The $10,000 thus provided for, in each of the five counties, to be used in employing a physician, trained in public health work, and an adequate number of assistants, such as public health nurses, microscopists and sanitary inspectors, who will devote their entire time to the prevention of sickness within the county.

The State Board of Health expects to show at the end of the first year's work such a decrease in the death rate from preventable diseases in the five counties selected, as will create a desire among a large number of counties for such departments by which time it is hoped that such arrangements will have been made as will enable to board to financially co-operate with most of the counties of groups of counties in the State.

PRINCE EDWARD ENTERS U. S.

Secretary Lansing Receives Royal Visitor As He Crosses the New York Border.

Rouses Point, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Edward, Prince of Wales, entered the United States tonight and received his first welcome to the republic at this little out-of-the-way New York town.

Officially he was greeted by Secretary of State Lansing, with a benediction staff of Admirals and Generals in attendance and the famous band of the 63rd United States Infantry blaring "God Save the King."

He shook hands in turn with Secretary Lansing, Maj. Gen. John Biddle, representing the United States Army; Rear Admiral Albert T. Niblick, representing the United States Navy; Maj. Gen. Chariton, of the British Army, representing the British embassy, and then with the officers of lesser rank belonging to the various staffs. The Prince laughingly apologized for using his left hand, explaining that his right had been "done in" in Canada.

Surprise is Given.

After introductions had ended, the Prince inspected the guard of honor. When he reached the end of the front rank a surprise awaited him. Rouses Point had selected its 12 prettiest girls to hold aloft a canopy formed of two great American and British flags sewed together.

"Oh, I must speak to the ladies afterward!" exclaimed the Prince. He completed his inspection and returned to the flagholders, passing under the canopy and shaking hands with each in turn.

The soldiers moved off as the Prince climbed aboard his car again and the crowd surged about the observation platform where he stood, smiling and waving his hand in acknowledgement of their cheers.

Greets Canadian Vet.

Just before the train pulled out on its long run to Washington a man darted out of the crowd and shouted:

"Will you give me the honor of shaking hands with you? 'I'm a Canadian, wounded and gassed at Vimy.'"

The Prince leaned over the rail and heartily shook him by the hand, and the train was off.

That Traveler Who Indulged in Kava Tells Us Nothing About the "Morning After."

"Healthe," he said to me, "you know that to drink kava you must be of empty stomach. After eating, kava will make you sick. If you do not eat as soon as you have drunk it, you will not enjoy it. Take it now, and then eat quickly."

He tipped a shell in the tanoos, tossed
a few drops over his shoulder to propi-tiate the god of the kava here drinking and placed the shell in my hands.
Up! The liquor tasted like earth and water, sweetish for a moment and then acid and pungent. It was hard to get down, but all the men took theirs at a gulp, and when Kivi gave me another shellful I patterned by them. A ring came in my ears as when one puts a seashell to them and hears the drowsy murmur of the tides. Kivi laughed, and vaguely I heard his squeals.

"Veeven? Is it hot?"
"E, mahunahana. I am very warm."
I struggled to reply. My voice sounded as that of another. I leaned harder against the wall and closed my eyes.

A peace passing the understanding of the kava-ignorant was upon me.
Life was a slumbering calm; not dull inertia, but a separated activity, as if the spirit roamed in a garden of beauty, and the body, and suffering, all feeling past, resigned itself to quietude.
I heard faintly the chants of the men,
as they began improving the afterfeasting entertainment. I was perfectly conscious of being lifted by several women to within the house, and of being laid upon mats that were as soft to the body as the waters of a quiet sea. It was as if angels bore me on a cloud. All told, all effort was over; I should never return to care or duty.

I was then a giant, prone in an endless ease, who stretched from the waterfall at the topmost point of the valley to the shore of the sea, and above me ran in many futile excite-ments the natives of Attona, small creatures whose concerns were naught
to me.—Exchange.

TOOK THE SCENE LITERALLY

But Not Many Movie Spectators Are as Unsophisticated as Was Uncle Ted Prouty.

A prominent movie director, said
at a luncheon in Los Angeles:

"Movie audiences are very sophisticated nowadays. They insist on accuracy. If you are inaccurate in the smallest detail they write you hundreds of scolding letters. It wasn't so in the past.

"The movie audiences of the past
were as naive as Uncle Ted Prouty.
Uncle Ted came to town one evening and went to the theater with his wife. In the first act a woman was shot, and when the curtain went down a good many men left their seats and went out.

"Uncle Ted fidgeted a while and then he took his hat and started out on his turn.

"Where be you goin'?" his wife
asked.

"Look here, Hannah," said Uncle Ted, "I've stood this thing just as long as I can, and now I'm goin' out like the rest to see how that poor woman is gettin' along that was shot.
The unfortun'it wretch may be dead by this time, and if she is this ain't no place for us."

Hans Christian Andersen.

Hans Christian Andersen, styled the children's poet, was a celebrated Danish writer, born at Odense in 1805 and died at Copenhagen after a brief illness, August 4, 1875. His last years were unharrassed by criticism and attended by all the honor and love that should accompany genius combined with old age. As the child of poor, shiftless parents, he had little instinction and few associates, but his dandled instinct was developed by Dontaine and the Arabian Nights, and the visit of a theatrical company to his native city led him to seek his dramatic fortune in Copenhagen, where,
for four years he worked diligently but produced nothing of note. In 1835 he essayed the "Fairy Tales," by which he was to receive world wide recognition. The classic "Tinderbox" and "Big Clans and Little Clans," are also of this year. A short time afterwards
"Only a Fiddler" gave him a European reputation.

Beautiful Marine Organisms.

A beautiful marine organism which floats in tropical seas is not a single creature, but a colony of many individuals, connected with each other like Siamese twins, and of several different kinds. The largest and most brilliantly colored is inflated with gas and floats on the water surface. All the other members of the colony hang from its under side. Some are small and trumpet-shaped and do the feeding for the entire community. Others are tin-ger-like and are "feelers." Still others resemble bunches of grapes. These are egg layers. Another kind are like long streamers and extend down into the water to act as "drag anchors."
They are also armed with "sting cells" to slay young fishes, which they afterward draw up to the hungry mouths above.

Waste of Money.

Magnate—That fellow knows too much about my affairs. I had to give him $5,000 to keep me out of jail.

Wife—Oh, Henry, please stop spending your money so foolishly.

UNAPPRECIATIVE

By EDNA W. SWIFT.

Mr. Barrows settled himself comfortably in his easy chair with a sigh of infinite content. It was a rainy Sunday—a steady downpour that threatened to deluge any neighborly person who might wish to venture out.
Mr. Barrows was aware of this fact;
hence the sigh of infinite content.

His wife entered the room, her eyes darting here and there for dust after the manner of a good housewife. She espied her husband resting blissfully
in the big chair; his feet crowning a second one.

"That's right, George," she ben-
ned. "Enjoy yourself. It's your one day of rest through the week, and it's raining
so hard nobody will be here today, so you can read without interruption."

Mr. Barrows' answering smile was somewhat apprehensive, but he smiled pleasantly as he answered. "That's the idea, Martha. I see a good day ahead of me. Some life." Then he sank down even lower in the easy chair.

Scarcely had he started to read
when his wife's wandering eye found the long-sought bit of dust on the carpet. It happened to be under the arm of her husband's chair. She hustled out into the kitchen and returned with the broom.

"Now, don't you move, George," she admonished, as she juggled the broom back and forth in a futile attempt to catch the offending particle. "I just want to get a little dust off me underneath your chair. You sit right still.
I don't want to disturb you."

More futile jabs with the broom.
Mrs. Barrows became nervous and in a desperate effort to sweep up the tormenting speck of dirt brought the broom dangerously near to Mr. Barrows' nose. He jumped up with an impudent ejaculation.

"For heaven's sake, Martha," he said. "Why, of all days, do you have to sweep on Sunday? Aren't six days enough to chase dirt. Here's the fashion sheet. Have you seen it?"

Mrs. Barrows seized the sheet and was soon engrossed in its fascinating descriptions. Her husband, feeling slight pangs of hunger went to the pantry and returned with a large, luscious sandwich, which he was eating with great relish.

Martha, the observant, cast stern
eyes of disapproval on him. "Why, George Barrows," she exclaimed, "You surely are not going to eat again so soon after breakfast?"

"I'm going to finish this sandwich;
that's one sure bet," retorted her spouse, between satisfying mouthfuls.
"Now, Martha, for heaven's sake, don't lecture about that."

Silence. Mrs. Barrows returned to her fashion sheet, looked on the opposite side and gave a triumphant little sneer. "Look, George!" she exclaimed. "They're selling shirts at Grey's tomorrow at a great bargain. Three-dollar shirts for ninety-eight cents.
They are able to do this because they bought the cloth before the war."
Derisive snorts from her better half.
"Well, if you won't believe in bargains
I can't convince you, but just think of the stamps I could have got."

No answer. Mr. Barrows was evidently deeply engrossed in his story.
Mrs. Barrows' interest in the paper had waned. She fidgeted. Finally her attention was attracted to some barrels in the adjoining yard.

"George," No answer. "George," louder still. No reply. "George!" in a shrill tremolo. "Don't you hear me?"

"Uh, uh," absently.

"Did you know the ash men were out on strike?"

"Are they?" more absently still.

"Yes, and the Rankins have their barrels out. They told me yesterday that there was no telling when they could be taken and they get theirs out on time. Now, before you forget it, don't you think it would be a good plan to get ours out before—"

She got no further. Her husband bounced from his chair. "Can a man never find real peace or comfort in his own home? No, Martha," as she started to interrupt. "Let me speak.
I have hoped that some time I could look on my home as a place of rest and you have consistently nagged—"

"Why, George," tearfully, "I didn't mean—"

"No. That's the sad part of it," her husband replied. "You never mean, but you always do. Take today, for instance. As soon as I got comfortably settled you began to raise the dust and poke my chair; then I started to eat a sandwich and you gave a doleful prophecy. Then, when I was trying to keep my temper you started a discussion about shirts and climatic conditions. Grey & Co. aren't wishing shirts on me for nothing, that's a bet. And finally the strike of the ash men held the floor. Martha, I don't want to read all the time, but I think a man is entitled to one day's rest out of the week. Good natured or ugly nagging—it's just as annoying when a woman keeps it up consistently. Now, I'm through. Like the ash men, I go on strike for my rights.
If you don't stop nagging next Sunday I'll lock myself in my room and enjoy the first rest in years."

The next morning Mrs. Barrows confided tearfully to her understanding neighbor. "What do you think,
dear? George accused me yesterday of nagging."

But the understanding one nodded negatively, albeit with infinite sympathy. "It's just because men don't understand, my dear."

They Slipped them the Vote, for

I never could Fall for the Theory

while his Ma, who Brought him

I'm FOR this Suffrage Thing, Fol-

A Flock of Guys with Petrified Brains can't see Suffrage. They say, If the Women Dip into the Political Game, they'll come out Shy of their Femininity; they'll want to "Be like Men."

That Stuff is All Wrong. They Won't.

But I hold, anyhow, that the Missus has the Right to Try Anything the Old Man has. To their Credit, they don't try it.

Suppose she Slipped Downtown and Gave the White-lights a Play
every few nights?

Or came home with the Sad Tidings that she'd Dropped the Bankroll in a Friendly Game of Draw?

What would you do—Be Inclined to Give her the Gate?

Well, she is just as much Entitled to that Sort of Thing as you are. But She doesn't Indulge.

And, if Politics is a Tough Game,
YOU are the one that made it that way, OLD Timer!

It's a Safe Bet that you can call yourself a Bad Egg without getting a Comeback. And you Know in your Heart that the Game is not going to Spoil the Ladies; They will take most of the Rough Edges off it.

But with the Queens sitting beside us, maybe we'll look more like Kings.

RESCUE OF STARVING MEXICAN GOATS

The Island of Guadalupe, off the western Mexico coast, is inhabited by goats only—some 50,000 of them. This year they are starving, owing to lack of rain there, and many of them are being shipped to the foothill ranches of southern California. A cargo of these goats is here shown arriving at San Diego.

I rushed in the car, but needless to say, did not find the two girls, as we had passed their corner about a mile back.—Exchange.

VICTOR BERGER OUSTED AT LAST

Socialist Loses His Seat in Congress
By Vote of 309 to 1.

Washington, November 10.—Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee Socialist, was denied his seat in the House today by an overwhelming vote, the House holding he was ineligible for membership because of his open opposition to war.

The vote to unseat Berger was 309 to 1, Representative Voight, Republican, Wisconsin, being the only member to support the Wisconsin Socialist either during the debate or on the roll call.

After the denying seat to Berger, the House declared that the seat was vacant, holding that Joseph P. Carney, Democrat, who contested Berger's election, did not receive a plurality in the election last year. Without a record vote, the House also directed Speaker Gillette to notify the Wisconsin Governor of the vacancy in the state legislature so that a special election may be called to choose a new member.

Consideration of the right of Berger to a seat proceeded amidst some what of an uproar in the House chambers and with crowded gallery. A detail of capital police guarded the entrance of the men's galleries. Berger's wife and nephew were in the public gallery until shortly before the roll call, but Berger himself, after alternating during the debate between the chamber and the lobbies, left just as the vote began.

The resolution on which the House acted in refusing Berger a seat follows the unanimous report of the Elections Committee reciting his alleged seditious utterances and disloyal activities during the war, and said:

"Resolved, that under the facts and circumstances of this case, Victor L. Berger is not entitled to take the oath of office as a representative in this House from the Fifth Congressional district of the State of Wisconsin or to hold a seat therein as such representative."

Explaining his activities, speeches and articles, but making no defense, Berger attacked the executive branch of the government and then turned on members, "rubber stamps of the administration." This drew from Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, the demand that he confine his remarks to his own activities in connection with the war. Berger charged that his exclusion as a member of Congress "would be a cut-and-dried affair because I am a Socialist and opponent of war and profiteering. I take back nothing I said in my speeches and articles," he told the House, "and under the same circumstances I would say and write it all over again, only I would make it a great deal stronger."

COAL STRIKE CALLED OFF

Acting President Lewis said: "Gentlemen, we will comply with the mandate of the court. We do it under protest. We are Americans. We cannot fight our government. That is all."

Labor's Attitude.

Labor in general, as represented by the Executive Committee of the Federation of Labor, had offered its unqualified support to the miners in their strike, while obedience or disobedience of a Federal Court order hung in the balance, and this fact gave the miners' representatives who favored holding out an argument which weighed heavily with some of their colleagues.

On the other hand, the President's designation of the strike as unlawful placed the coal workers in a position of defying the government of the United States, after they refused to accept the strike and abide by the consequences attaching to disobedience of the Federal Court order many were adverse to considering anything which could be construed as lack of Americanism.

Will Call Mines and Operators Washington, Nov. 11.—The immediate call for the nine miners' operators together to a meeting was agreed upon, Secretary L. H. Wilson said today, after a meeting of President Wilson's cabinet.

Attorney General Palmer, on leaving the cabinet meeting, made this statement: "My information is that the miners have submitted to the court the order for the strike and are withdrawing the strike order. The strike order having been withdrawn, therefore the Secretary of Labor will today invite the operators and miners to meet immediately in conference to negotiate an adjustment of their controversy.

"I have been assuming at all times that the miners' organization would obey the law when it was called to their attention in the way it has been, and I am glad they justify this assumption.

"The way is now open to a settlement by the peaceful processes, which should always be employed in the settlement of such disputes without injury to the general public."

Mr. Brewster on his arrival here today from St. Louis, declined to comment on the settlement of the strike.

"So far as the operators are concerned the situation is unchanged," Brewster said. "We have always been ready to resume negotiations with the miners when the strike was called off."

Mr. Brewster was in conference to day with a number of operators, who came here with him, and later they went to the office of Fuel Administrator Garfield.

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor was to meet this afternoon, and it was said at Federal headquarters that no statement on the strike settlement would be forthcoming in advance of the meeting.

Officials gave the first intimation of the reserve coal stocks after hearing of the announcement by the miners' officials. Director General Hines stated that the coal held under supervision of the Central Coal Commission aggregated about 15,000,000 tons. This, together with the coal in storage and at operating plants, constituted what was estimated as a thirty days' supply for domestic consumption.

VISITING NURSE IN EVERY COUNTY DR. LUCK'S PLAN

Dispensary Under Direction of Best Physicians To Be Paid For With Red Cross Xmas Seals.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.—A visiting nurse and dispensary in every county in Kentucky, under the direction of the ablest physicians obtainable are included in a plan of Dr. J. S. Lock, executive secretary of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, besides traveling clinics to go from county to county where needed in the fight against tuberculosis in the State, the objects toward the attainment of which the money received from the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals will be devoted this year, if enough of the seals are sold between December 1, and the day they are placed on sale, and December 10, the day the nation-wide and state-wide drive will be completed.

Visiting nurses are needed badly in some counties where there are many cases of tuberculosis, a large number of which could be cured if given proper attention, to say nothing of the prevention of the development of other cases through proper care of patients, which the visiting nurse teaches. The death rate from tuberculosis and the number of cases have been greatly reduced wherever visiting nurses have been available and the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals furnishes the funds with which the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association fight the plague by sending the visiting nurses to the rescue.

For the benefit of those who have heretofore purchased large quantities of the Red Cross Christmas Seals than they could use, the Health Board, in denominations of $5 to 1000, will be sold to generous Kentuckians and it is likely the program for the relief of those suffering from the plague as outlined by Dr. Lock will be made possible by the national sale of seals in Kentucky.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

Convention Notes.

Minneapolis, Nov. 11.—The first convention of the American Legion today started pronouncement of its policies by adopting resolutions declaring the organization to be "non-political," demanding the deportation of Victor Berger of Milwaukee as a "disloyal citizen" and asking the investigation of the record of Rep. Voight of Wisconsin, who supported Berger in the recent vote in the house of representatives.

Endorsement of universal military training with a small standing army and no compulsory military service in time of peace was voted enthusiastically tonight by the legion convention. It is recommended that the national citizen army be under local control and administration subject to general national regulations.

The resolutions asking the canceling of Berger's citizenship and his deportation, drawn by Theodore Roosevelt, post No. 1, of the District of Columbia, was adopted on motion of the Wisconsin delegation. A similar resolution requests Congress "if it finds Rep. Voight to be disloyal to take steps for his expulsion from the house of representatives."

The legion observed Armistice Day by a parade which ended with presentation of decorations to members of the 151st field artillery, a regiment composed largely with Twin City men, at the parade grounds before the armory.

Other important decisions reached today include the selection of Indianapolis as permanent national headquarters for the legion and Cleveland for the convention city of 1920. Washington and San Francisco contested with these two respectively and lost by narrow margins.

PUMPKIN BUTTER.

Cut up pumpkin in small slices. To two gallons of slice pumpkin allow a pint of good vinegar. Cook till pumpkin is tender. Stir frequently and when it begins to get down nearly dry stir constantly. Add sugar and make sweet as desired and stir an hour, or until stiff. Add spices. A lemon improves this butter.—Mrs. H.

The House by a vote of 309 to 1 unseated Victor Berger, the Socialist from Wisconsin. All good American will applaud this action—it is another step toward 100 percent Americanism. Now let the country follow suit and banish from the country all of the Reds and radicals who are attempting to undermine our Government.
